How To Use This Presentation Template

An effective presentation can increase your sales by several times over an unplanned or uncoordinated explanation of your product or service. It is during the sales presentation that you transform a skeptical or reluctant prospect into a committed customer.

This template is modeled from presentations I've used to make (and win) thousands of sales pitches in the last 18+ years, and will ensure you cover all the necessary aspects of a winning presentation. Simply fill in and customize the slides with your own text and images using Google Slides, or you can export to use in PowerPoint, Keynote or Adobe Acrobat.

Turn Objections Into Opportunities

Do your research and prepare for questions and objections. Address your audience's top 3 objections with a counter argument on how your product/solution a great opportunity.

Objection 1

Turn the objection into an opportunity without speaking to their fears.

EX: Adding an extra step is a hassle

This extra step adds an extra layer of secure protection to ensure absolutely no one can access your sensitive information.

EX: This service is already done in-house

What do you wish could be done better with your current services? Does it have X, Y, and Z?

Cost and Money Value

Data

Present data, information, and comparison to show the monetary value your product or service brings to your audience.

Value

Remind them how much value they are getting out of this product that makes it worth more than the price.

Benefits

Convincing your prospects first with all the benefits and opportunities before revealing the price will speak directly to their pockets and price won't be as much of an issue.
